RICH CLEVELAND
REALTOR OBJECT
EXTORTION PLOTHe Reveals Receipt Of Letter Demanding
Big Amount

Cleveland, May 5—(AP)—An attempt to extort $25,000 from Ellsworth H. Augustus, wealthy real estate man and nationally known golf star, under penalty of death was revealed today. The 80-acre Augustus estate has been placed under a heavy guard.

A letter demanding the money and threatening death unless its terms were complied with was received last Monday by Augustus, he said today. He was instructed to put the money on a fence post by a gate at his estate in Waite Heights village, home of many Cleveland millionaires.

Augustus said he turned the note over to private detectives. Police Chief Theodore A. Meyers of Wiloughby also was notified.

The note, written in pencil on a paper bag, said: "Leave $25,000 in paper money beside the gate in the fence along Hobart road in the northwest corner of your estate Tuesday night between midnight and 1 A. M. Do this—or you will die on our hands." It was signed: "Poor families."

G's Telephone Call
Failure to meet the demand was followed yesterday by a telephone call to Augustus' office by a man who told a secretary:

"Tell Mr. Augustus that he didn't keep his word. He'll get it for this time, but if he doesn't, it isn't enough, we'll get his children, too." Augustus was busy on another telephone at the time.

Preceding this call, a woman telephoned the Augustus home but hung up before he could answer.

"That is as much as we know about it at present," Augustus said. "Naturally we are keeping a watch at home in case of further developments."

YACHT MARCON SAILS
Norfolk, Va., May 5—(AP)—The yacht Marcon, carrying negotiators for the return of the Lindbergh baby on another of its mysterious cruises, sailed from its berth today at the Naval Base.

The cruise was planned for today by John Hughes Curtis, principal negotiator, after his return last night from his fifth trip by water. Early this morning Lieut. George L. Richard, naval officer working with the Norfolk boat builder, conferred with the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, another intermediary.

After the visit, which Dean Dobson-Peacock said was made to give him a report of the work, the clergyman would not divulge any information concerning the progress of their work.

"We are still hoping for the best," he replied when asked if they were encouraged.

It was reported that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, absent from his New Jersey home for a number of days, is here aiding in the negotiations.

MEANS ACCUSED

Washington, May 5—(AP)—Gaston B. Means was arrested today by Department of Justice agents who charged he had obtained $100,000 from Mrs. Edward M. McLean, wife of the Washington Post publisher, on representations that he would recover the Lindbergh baby.

He was charged with larceny after trial.

Means, a former Department of Justice agent, has served a term in the Atlanta penitentiary for accepting a bribe and for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

District Attorney Leo A. Rover said the warrant on which he was arrested charged that shortly after the abduction of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., on March 1 Means represented to Mrs. McLean he was in contact with the kidnappers and received $100,000 from her on his assurance that could bring about the infant's return.

Means first was taken to the Department of Justice for questioning by J. Edgar Hoover of the Bureau of Investigation. He was to be taken later before a United States Commissioner. Rover said he would ask that he post a bond of $100,000.

The warrant was issued secretly yesterday after being sworn to by a government investigator. The investigation was made under the direction of John M. Keith of the Bureau of Investigation, who acted on orders of Hoover, the Bureau Director.

Entries Received By Committees

Committees in charge of Dixon's first annual flower show to be held at the Elks club during the first week of June, the dates to be definitely decided later, are gratified at the ready response which they are receiving. Indications point to a crowded show with every department filled to its capacity.

The city has been divided into zones with assistant chairman in each zone to canvas for the entries. There will be no entry fee charged amateur exhibitors and entries will be welcomed from any one living in the city of Dixon and within a radius of ten miles from Dixon. While the show is being sponsored by the local lodge of Elks, it is not in any way a benefit to the lodge nor are entries limited to the membership or their families.

According to present plans the show will open on a Friday evening, continuing all day Saturday and closing Sunday evening, the displays being open from 1 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. A special opening of the show on Saturday morning will be provided for the school children of the city and vicinity. The show is a community enterprise and as far as possible is to be self-sustaining. The solicitation committees are emphasizing the following important facts to exhibitors:

Entries will be labeled by number and not by name, except in the case of prize winners.

There is no entrance fee.

An effort is being made to make the first show a complete success.

Over 200 prizes will be offered and by far the greater majority will be for unnamed varieties. Exhibitors have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Contributors will be furnished to all exhibitors assuring uniformity, except in entries C and D.

The committee is desirous of ascertaining as early as possible the number of entries to prepare for and the entry blanks are to be filed within the next few days. Those who are not personally solicited may secure blanks and information from Mrs. H. U. Bardwell, telephone 303; Mrs. Theo. J. Miller, Jr., K-377; William Nixon, 313 and Robert L. Warner, 190.

HENRY WARE IS

One Of Few Civil War Veterans

Henry Ware one of the few surviving Civil War veterans of this vicinity, died at his home in Dixon, Ill., on Wednesday, May 3, at the age of 93 years, seven months and 20 days.

Born in Somerset Pa., Mr. Ware spent his early manhood in that locality and at the outbreak of the Civil War, enlisted in the 142nd Pennsylvania regiment, serving through the war. At the close of the war he came to this vicinity in 1867 and engaged in farming in Taylor township, Ogle county, north of Franklin Grove, and in Nachusa township, Lee county. He retired from active life about 27 years ago when he moved to Dixon where he had since resided.

War Veterans'
"Racket" Bared
By A. Roosevelt

Washington, May 5—(AP)—Archibald B. Roosevelt, son of the former President, today presented to President Hoover a letter asking him to take "open and determined action" to cut off compensations paid to veterans for disabilities not resulting from war service.

Roosevelt declared in a statement left with the President that "a vast legalized 'racket' has been foisted on the people, whereby one quarter of all the revenue received from the whole nation is being expended for the benefit of less than one per cent of the people."

He also presented the President a petition backed by the National Economy Committee. Roosevelt said Mr. Hoover "seemed interested" in it.

Roosevelt is Secretary of the Economy Committee. He contended to the President that at least $450,000,000 could be saved from veterans' payments "without injustice."

Roosevelt, himself a veteran, plans to present similar petitions and statements to Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner of the House.

At about the same time members of the House Ways and Means committee went behind closed doors to decide what to do about cashing the soldiers' bonus.

The House Ways and Means committee put off until Friday a vote on the Patman plan to issue additional currency to redeem the two billion dollars outstanding on soldiers' bonus certificates.

Acting Chairman Crisp said he believed the committee would either report the bill favorably or unfavorably.

Along with the Patman plan the committee is considering a proposal to authorize issuance of bonds to retire the new currency should the value of the dollar drop too low.

Shake Down Of Wm.
Edison Attempted

Philadelphia, May 5—(AP)—Authorities were reported to be investigating today an attempt by Philadelphia racketeers to "shake down" William L. Edison, son of the late Thomas A. Edison, for $50,000.

The extortion was said to have been attempted by a threat to hinder Edison in his marketing of an invention called the "Edistad" to eliminate static from radio receiving sets.

The Philadelphia Record, which published the report, said Edison conferred with "authorities" last Monday over the situation. Edison himself admitted visiting police headquarters here but referred inquiries as to the nature of the discussion to Joseph A. Lestrang, Assistant Police Superintendent. Lestrang declined to discuss the matter.

Duncan told the judge he had been a school teacher, while Cooper asserted he studied civil engineering at Iowa State College nearly two years.

PRESIDENT OATS PRODUCTS CORP.
IS OPTIMISTICHe Sees A Bright Future
For Success Of New Dixon Concern

In an interview today with President Conrad Dyke of the Oats Products Corporation, he said:

"In taking over the Kennedy Oats Company, the new corporation has many advantages. The fact that this business was originally carried on in a small one story single room office, growing to its present size and present proportion, containing approximately 65,000 square feet of floor space, is indicative that a great deal of business has been carried on in the factory. The fact that rolled oats has been used as a breakfast food for many years, originating in Scotland, and growing to the enormous proportion it is today, is also indicative that the demand for rolled oats will always show an increase from year to year."

"The food value of rolled oats and products is well known, both as table oat meal and feeding oat meal, as physicians will testify. As a cooked breakfast cereal it is in a class by itself, and is probably used more extensively than any other breakfast food."

Before the "Ready-to-eat" breakfast foods were introduced a few years ago, a package of rolled oats, was a common sight in every household.

Future Prospects
"In the year 1920 according to the records now in the office of the Oat Products Corporation, the total amount of business done was in excess of $850,000 derived from the sale of rolled oats and their by-products. This fact is not generally known to the Dixon people, but is conclusive evidence what the future business prospects of the new corporation will enjoy. The fact that this business has been established for many years the reputation of the former products manufactured, is an asset that would be difficult to estimate the value of. In addition to the manufacture of the former products, the new product Toasted Oat Flakes, will earn considerable revenue. When you stop to consider the fact that the Oat Products Corporation, will be the exclusive manufacturers of this product in the United States, it is difficult to visualize the earning possibilities. The machinery which will be installed will have a capacity of approximately 500 cases daily, each case containing 36 8 oz. packages, or a total of 18,000 packages. In Chicago alone, which has over 3,500,000 population the consumption would be approximately 3,000 daily. In the United States the population is in excess of 130,000,000 persons, so that in order to supply this vast amount with Toasted Oat Flakes our manufacturing facilities would have to be increased over 100 times present capacity."

"During the last three years over $18,000 has been spent for new equipment. Other equipment has been kept in good repair, and the general condition of the plant is very good. The location is excellent due to the fact that both the Illinois Central and North Western railroads have spur tracks on both sides of the shipping department."

"A recent appraisal made December 31, 1931 showed the value to be in excess of $200,000."

"On completion of the present financing of the Oat Products Corporation, they will have a cash balance of more than $30,000 and no outstanding mortgage indebtedness of any kind. The total amount of preferred stock to be outstanding will be $75,000 which is one third of the actual appraised value. The investment of $100 actually becomes immediately worth $300 in accordance with the

Democrats Will Compensate For Forgetfulness

Springfield, Ill., May 5—(AP)—

Endorsement of U. S. Senator James Hamilton Lewis as Democratic candidate for President, an item which the Democratic state convention neglected last month was today made the subject of a resolution to be submitted to the Democratic State Central committee this afternoon.

Senator Lewis is the only Democratic whose name appeared as candidate for President on the Illinois Democratic primary ballot last month.

Thomas F. Donovan, Jr., of Joliet, chairman of the committee whose re-election was regarded as certain, said everyone regretted the lack of endorsement for Lewis by the state convention, but that the resolution was in the convention, but not submitted.

Edward A. Allen of Quincy was slated for re-election as secretary of the committee, and the only new item forecast by gossip was the resolution calling for appointment of an executive committee to aid Democratic candidates in the fall campaign. This committee would be named later after a conference is held with Judge Henry Horner, the candidate for Governor and other candidates.

Schrock Says Half
Of Tax Is Paid

County Treasurer Sterling D. Schrock today took exception to statements made before the city council by one of the city commissioners Tuesday evening to the effect that but 25 per cent of the taxes had been paid into the County Treasury this spring.

"Such a statement is incorrect and without foundation," the County Treasurer stated to The Telegraph this morning. "On May 1, there had been collected in the County Treasury, 52 per cent of the entire tax to be collected, including personal and both installments of the real estate tax. Any such statements as was purporting to have been made by a member of the city council Tuesday evening was not the result of any examination of the records in the County Treasurer's office, nor was any such statement given out from this office."

"Lee county bears the distinction of ranking ahead of adjoining counties in the payment of taxes this spring and the financial condition of the county is far better than its neighbors. With this condition of affairs and the fact that more than half of the taxes have been collected I am at a loss to understand why such a misleading statement should be made by a member of the city council."

The police intimated, however, that he might be held later, as a material witness.

The four against whom charges of forgery were filed were Willard Richman, 23, a broker of Philadelphia; and Daniel DeKoven, 31, an artist; Jack Cohen, 28, a salesman, and Anthony Pittola, 32, all of New York.

Police said none of the bogus stock had been issued. The seizures in the raid included presses, inks, plates, paper and other supplies, and 50 completed 100 share bogus certificates and 600 partly finished certificates.

The names of the two men taken to police headquarters today by the Assistant District Attorney were withheld but one was said to have been the financial backer of the venture.

Justice Dept. To Order Fall Freed

Washington, May 5—(AP)—Department of Justice authorities will see to it that Albert B. Fall goes free next Sunday.

If Warren E. B. Swope of the New Mexico penitentiary sticks to his announced plan of not releasing his prisoner when his term ends unless instructed from Washington, the order will be sent.

The question hinges on Fall's $100,000 fine, added to the year and a day sentence imposed upon conviction in a Federal Court for accepting a bribe while Secretary of the Interior in the Harding administration. Normally fines must be paid before release, or a pauper's oath must be taken, followed by brief confinement to work out the fine.

But, the Justice officials explained Fall's sentence was worded differently, and does not exact payment of the fine as price of freedom. They can obtain a judgment against him, although they did not say this would be done.

Memphis Man Held In Jail For Deaths

Memphis, Tenn., May 5—(AP)—Police cast discredit today on Stanley A. Puryear's account of his wife's and daughter's deaths and retained him in jail on a charge of murdering a Negro he claims invaded their home at dawn Monday and killed them with an axe.
His version was that his wife's screams waked him and he fatally wounded the Negro in an exchange of shots.
A Negro named Will Jamison was found stumbling along the street near the Puryear home. He died soon afterwards after accusing Puryear of luring him to his house to help move a cache of liquor and shooting him without reason.
After examining photographs of the bodies of Mrs. Puryear and her daughter, Aurelia, Detective Sergeant William Lester said today he was convinced the blows on their heads precluded possibility of an outcry from either.

Discouragement Pays No Dividend

Washington, May 5—(AP)—Declaring that "discouragement pays no dividends," Chief Justice Hughes today told the American Law Institute that this "is not a time for relaxing effort but for redoubling it."
"These are hard days, critical days," he added, but they are days in which it is worth while to live and toil—stirring days!"

COMMUTATION OF SENTENCES ENDS PENDING ACTION

subjected to imprisonment, many Senators and Representatives showed by comments they felt the stigma of conviction and the consequent loss of citizenship rights should be lifted immediately.
A few dissenters, some were satisfied as matters stood, but attempts for legislation to give President Hoover pardoning power were pushed.
Rear Admiral Yates Sterling, Commandant at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, recommended to the Navy Department today the immediate transfer of the naval personnel convicted in the slaying.
Navy Department officials indicated the Bureau of Navigation would issue orders to comply with the recommendation.
The Navy men convicted were Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie, A. O. Jones and E. J. Lord, enlisted men.
It was considered likely that the three would leave Honolulu for San Francisco on the next available vessel.

WAR DEPARTMENT APPROPRIATIONS CUT TO EXTREME

House Committee Reports Bill Greatly Under Budget

Washington, May 5—(AP)—Slashed by many millions under President Hoover's budget estimates, the last of the big regular supply bills for 1933—this for the War Department—was reported to the House today by its Appropriations Committee.
Cutting 2,000 officers off the active list and making other sweeping reductions, the measure carries $386,983,000 for maintenance of the Army and its non-military activities. It is $53,789,000 below current appropriations and $24,380,000 less than the budget estimates.
The reduction brings to $160,000,000 the amount deducted by the democratic controlled committee from President Hoover's requests for funds for the maintenance of the federal government in 1933. Only the second deficiency appropriation bill remains to be presented before Congress adjourns.
Of the total, $281,593,000 is for military activities, while $105,444,000 is for non-military work of the department.
The estimates include a lump sum of $60,000,000 for the improvement of rivers and harbors and $32,000,000 for the Mississippi Valley flood control project.
Not one budget estimate was increased and no item not recommended by President Hoover was included in the measure.
Besides cutting from 12,000 to 10,000 the number of officers, the bill proposes suspension of camps for reserve officers training; suspension of Citizens Military Training Camps; suspension of 14 day training pay for organized reserves; a $5,555,000 curtailment of transportation of troops and officers; a $3,219,000 reduction in subsistence allowances, and reduction in flying pay totaling $121,500.
Although the amount allotted army Air Corps activities is $34,738,000, the general expenses, including outlays for work on the five year expansion program, are set at $25,541,000.
The report said this expansion program, authorized in 1926 could not be completed in 1933 because it would require 2,058 airplanes to maintain the 1,800 in active service there being 12 1-2 per cent unserviceable at all times. At present the army is 198 planes short of the 1,800.
Mary Nolan, Hubby, Facing Jail Terms
Los Angeles, May 5—(AP)—Having served their first move to evade serving a 30-day jail sentence, Mary Nolan, actress and her husband, Wallace T. Macready, today indicated, through their attorney, they would apply for probation or appeal to the state Supreme Court.
The pair was convicted of violating the state labor laws on March 11. The Appellate Department of the Superior court yesterday upheld the conviction and sentences.
Miss Nolan, formerly known as the New York stage as Imogene Wilson and Macready were convicted of failing to pay employees of a gown shop which they operated in Hollywood.
Miss Nolan is new on a theatrical tour. She has 48 hours within which to surrender, and five days within which to file an appeal. Her husband is said to be accompanying her on the tour. Both are at liberty on $200 bonds each.

SHANGHAI WAR ENDED TODAY: TERMS SIGNED

Compromise Agreed Upon By Chinese And Japanese

Shanghai, China, May 5—(AP)—Four months of open warfare between China and Japan in the area about this city ended today when representatives of both sides signed an armistice.
The manner of it was as unusual as was the fighting itself. Although thousands of lives were sacrificed and millions of dollars worth of property was destroyed, the conflict about Shanghai never was officially a war, because neither side declared war.
So today there was no ceremonial gathering of statesmen to sign the truce. Instead, the signatures of neutral representatives were affixed to the British Consulate and then the document was taken to the hospital where Japan's representatives are recovering from wounds inflicted by an assassin. The Chinese spokesman signed at his home.
The terms of the peace were not immediately made public, but an unofficial version indicated that it was a compromise bridging the differences which deadlocked the peace parley for a month or more.
The Chinese were understood to have won their demand that Japanese troops retire from their present positions into the International Settlement. The Japanese obtained an agreement that some of their soldiers remain in the vicinity of Hongkew and Woosung.
It appeared also that Japan had succeeded in avoiding a definite time limit for withdrawal of troops. Her representatives refused to accept such a condition during all the negotiations. At the same time, however, it was understood that the retirement would begin within a week and would be completed within a month.
In Congress Today
Washington, May 5—(AP)—The revised revenue bill was declared $100,000,000 short of the goal of balancing the budget by Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance committee and the committee was called back to look for new taxes.
Smoot made his estimate after the committee had applied the brakes to further reversals in rates and had settled back to learn from the Treasury just what the bill did.
He pointed to even higher increases in the income taxes as one way of finding the additional $100,000,000 which appeared to be necessary after the first survey of the revenue legislation.
Under Secretary Ballantine of the Treasury emerged from the executive session of the committee cautious about making an estimate but he intimated more revenue would have to be found.
He agreed that the Senate committee bill raised about a billion dollars, practically the amount provided by the House, but said even more money was required.
President Hoover was called upon in the Senate today by Senator Tydings (D. Md.) to state his views on prohibition before the tax bill is passed and it is too late to tax beer.
He said Secretary Hurley and Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, had indicated President Hoover would agree to "some sort of wet or modification" platform while Chairman Fess of the Republican National Committee had said the party would remain dry.
"It is rather a sad commentary on democracy," Tydings said, "that on a great question like this, the President of the United States is absolutely silent."
"No man in the country knows whether he is going to be for a continuation of this glorious experiment or advocate some change. Is there any one in this chamber who can state how the Chief Executive stands on this question?"
Fess, sitting at his desk reading, apparently paid no attention to Tydings.
Tydings said the Finance committee was struggling to raise sufficient taxation "while bootleggers grow rich, was planning to tax automobiles, radio, theater admissions and gambling."

Business Women's Banquet Last Evening Was Successful

The Business Women's banquet held Wednesday at the Christian church at 6:15 P. M. was enjoyed by all who attended. There were about seventy-five present in all. The ladies of the Grace Evangelical church served the dinner.

Decorations were red, white and blue since this was the patriotic banquet. All pep-songs used were sung to patriotic tunes accompanied by the piano by Mrs. Grady Caspell.

The menu consisted of:
Mashed Potatoes Green Beans
Baked Ham
Perfection Salad
Light Cake with Whipped Cream
Hot Rolls Coffee

At the close of the meal the toastmistress, Mrs. Ray Harris, introduced Mrs. J. E. Reagan who gave a reading entitled, "Big Sisters." This was so enjoyed that Mrs. Reagan has consented to give another reading at the next, and by the way, the last Business Women's banquet next Wednesday night.

Rev. Marshall as the speaker of the evening spoke on, "Three Essentials of Life." They were namely, faith, courage and memory.

He stated, "The first is one of the great fundamentals of our Christianity. Dr. Parker, an Englishman, was talking to some children. He said, 'Now, boys, I want you to understand that God will answer your prayers if you will only trust him.' One little chap who heard him got into trouble and was promised a whipping by his mother. He asked to go to his bedroom and when he got there he prayed. 'Lord, Dr. Parker said you'd help me in time of trouble and this is the time.' His mother had followed and having heard the prayer couldn't then spank him. That is an example of child-like faith."

"The second point is courage. No one needs courage more than women. Look at the pilgrim mothers. Theirs was the courage of women when crossing the Atlantic and meant something. They came to this country seeking a place to worship. This nation would not be what it is if it hadn't been for courage of these women."

"Then comes memory, which is the greatest thing apart from faith. James Barry said, 'Memory is a great thing because you can have roses in December thru memory.'"

"We should remember home, mother and Jesus Christ. In 1893, there was a great gathering of people of various religions in the world. The last speaker was an American, Dr. J. C. Cooke, who said, speaking of Lady Macbeth, 'Gentlemen, there is one power that could deal with the guilty stains of a woman who dipped her hands in the blood? None said any could. What your religious failed to do the blood of Jesus Christ can for the blood of Jesus Christ, God's Son, cleanse from all sin.'"

"Face life with courage and faith. It is not so easy to sail seas when waves engulf the ship. But nothing can take the place of the power of Christ in your life."

Since the last point was memory, let's remember the next Business Women's banquet will be held on Wednesday, May 11, in the Christian church at 6:15 P. M. Tickets can be bought from or reservations made through the members of the committee.

Blues Still Leading in Conference

The Young People's Conference met as usual last evening under the leadership of Dick Choate. The Blues are still leading in the contest.

The topic of discussion developed by the director was, "How To Choose a Life Work."

Dick said in part, "You all have to do something. Uncle Josh says, 'A man is born; he is married, and he dies.' Thus describing life. I think there is more to life than that."

"When you are a freshman in high school begin thinking. If you really want to go to college you should get at least $300 or $400 to start with. Don't quit high school. There is no place in the world for the uneducated man. I was in Chicago Monday and there were blocks lined with fellows asking for money."

"You are in school to prepare yourself. Desire to study not for grades, but for what you are going to get out of the thing."

"Judge a college first as to its being a Christian school. Many of us make mistakes because the spiritual atmosphere is low. Many a fellow gets in with the wrong bunch. Get in with the bunch that is going to help you. The first thing to do after getting in school is to line up with the church."

In choosing a life-work, you have a mighty big job trying to find out what to do. People say, "All work is within the value of the realm of God." H. G. Wells gives two tests in the choosing of life-work. First, was the world better because I lived. Second, the better perishes, but the givers live on."

"Don't go into life with the idea that you have to have money. Money is important, but if you live just to get money you are riding for a fall."

"Set your goal at the top. Don't try to get over night or in the morning you will fall back. First pick a goal then bend every effort towards it. A good motto is, 'The best you have is the least to offer any task or friendship.'"

"Don't drift. When you finish high school don't just wait for a good job to come along. You can always find something to do. If you can't go to school go to the library and study the certain lines in which you are interested. Talk to people of like profession."

"Consider what you like to do, but whether it be work with people or material things or dealing with others in a social relationship."

"Here are two more tips. Whatever you do be happy in it. Don't go through life with a frown. Be natural. If you try to imitate anybody else you fall flat. Secondly, be a Christian. Follow the Golden Rule of the Bible and you are bound to succeed."

"Don't forget the meeting to-night at 6:45 Ray Harris will speak."

An "Official" View of Capital Fashions

Sumptuous gowns and rich furs worn by the First Lady and the ladies of the cabinet, ushered in the Baltimore opera season. Left to right: Mrs. Arthur Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, wore a pale pink lace gown topped by a long fur coat with ermine collar; Mrs. Patrick Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, an exquisite white satin with sable collar; Mrs. Herbert Hoover, black lace with a rich metal brocade wrap made with a flowing cape; Mrs. Walter Brown, wife of the Postmaster General, deep gold lace and satin, with a fur coat with sumptuous sleeves and huge collar; Mrs. Robert Lamont, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, black satin and a black fur wrap with ermine collar.

ance pins were awarded to Helen Jane Coleman and Gilbert W. Scheffler. Merle E. Bowers received the Eversharp pencil award for four hundred perfect spelling lessons. With the exception of one in the first grade, all who entered school in September and completed the year's work, had a perfect attendance record.

Glenn E. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Coleman, was an honor graduate for the year. Glenn not only leaves behind him a good scholastic record, but also has to his credit in his elementary education, four years of perfect attendance.

MAKE-UP HINTS FOR THE OUTDOOR GIRL

There is something incongruous about a feminine golfer who, when she appears on the links, is made up like a night club entertainer.

Tasteful outdoor make-up for active sports requires a restrained hand. So do all day-time make-ups. You can be lavished with the paint pot and mascara when you are dead sure you'll be seen only by candle light. But when the sun beats down on you and submits you to its searching truthful rays, let the rouge you use be of the right shade and used sparingly, the lipstick match and be applied perfectly and the eye make-up be done so well you can't see it yourself.

Two things every woman should have if she wants to look her best. First is a long mirror that shows her entire figure perfectly. Second, a searching light over her dressing table. A famous French beautician once said, "To be truly beautiful, women should make up with a searchlight thrown onto their faces and the nape of their necks only be candle light."

Perhaps unfortunately, most of us do more appearing by glaring daylight or strong electricity than soft candles. It may be hard on us all. But we can do much to soften reality if we use make-up skillfully.

For street wear, never use black mascara. There are new soft brown tones. Never use the new lavender, green and blue powders. They bring magic only by evening wear. Never use the new silver or golden eyelid shadow. That, too, is created to give allure when you are dancing, dining, or chatting when evening falls.

If you go in for golf or tennis or horseback riding, have your make-up so perfect that it merely gives you a healthy glow.

There is art in applying a tiny bit of rouge between the brows, on the chin, gently over the whole upper part of the cheekbone and graduating it out towards the nose until it disappears, leaving only a rosy tint. Put on right, this is a healthy make-up, fine for outdoor girls. But be moderate. And be sure you put it on where the light is strong enough to tell you the truth.

Spring may be in your heart, but if your feet aren't comfortable you just can't wear the smile you should.

War weather brings out the flowers and the birds, to be sure but it brings have to feet that aren't fitted right and have not received good care.

Being good to your feet is a lot like casting your bread upon the water. It is yourself who benefits!

If your feet perspire, give them the benefit of salt baths, cold rinses and massage. Give them the following treatment:

1. Go barefooted whenever you can — on the sands, around your room, in the garden, if you really have courage.
2. Wiggle your toes whenever you think of it—riding in the car, sitting, reading, working at your desk. This wiggling is exercise. Exercise stimulates circulation. It is bad circulation that has a lot to do with sweating.
3. Change your stockings every single day — a direction most of you won't need at all but one every woman should pin her faith to. (It is easier on your stockings as well as your feet to be washed after one wearing, even if it's only for an hour.)
4. Change your shoes every day. If you haven't two pairs to alternate for your work, at least change your shoes the minute you get home in the evening, even if you have only bedroom slippers to put on. Take off your stockings and go barefooted evenings, if you can manage it at home. Parties are another thing again. This is for quiet home wear.
5. Give your feet some sunshine. Lamps are fine for those who never see the real article. Even giving your feet a Sunday bath of sunshine helps.

These are little things. But the littlest ache in your feet, etches little lines in your face. For beauty's sake, as well as comfort's, give your feet a break!

LOVELY MAY

(To be sung to the tune of "Lightly Row.")
LOVELY May, lovely May,
Decks the world with blossoms gay,
"Come ye all, come ye all,"
Thus the flowers call.
Sparkles now that sunny day,
Fragrant is the flowery vale;
Song of bird, song of bird,
In the grove is heard.

Lightly pass, lightly pass,
Thro' the nodding meadows grass,
Woodlands bright, woodlands bright,
Wake from winter's night.
Where the silver brooklet flows,
Rippling softly as it goes,
Will we rest, will we rest,
In green mossy nest.

The ceremony took place on Thursday in Chicago where they will make their home. They were unaccompanied at the altar.

"Mrs. Richards was a member of the class of 1926 of the Prophetstown high school, after which she attended Northwestern University. Later she was a student at Gunn's School of Music in Chicago, and she is an accomplished violinist."

THE WAY WE DO THINGS

On May 14 there is going to be a big parade in New York City. It is to be a "beer parade," a vast demonstration by people who want the making and selling of beer made legal again, and New York's municipal government is making great plans to help it out.

Now this is perfectly proper, of course, since the right of citizens to demonstrate against a law that they don't like is inalienable; but suppose, just for the fun of it, that this great parade were going to be put on, not by people who are thirsty, but by people who are hungry?

What would happen then?
You could make a pretty fair-sized parade out of it, if you enrolled every man in New York who wants something to eat. But would your parade be permitted to move? Try to imagine the sensation that would arise, the thrills of fear that would circulate up and down various patriotic backs, if 50,000 people should try to parade down Broadway carrying placards saying, "We want bread!"

Unless the New York police handled it differently than they have handled every other demonstration by the jobless, such a parade would not get one block before the cops charged in with clubs swinging. A lot of heads would get busted and next day we would hear all about a dreadful riot.

As it is, though, there won't be a bit of trouble. The May 14 parade is to be held by the thirsty, not by the hungry. The marchers are going to demand beer, which is illegal, instead of bread, which isn't. Consequently nobody will be alarmed, no policeman will have to use his club and no marcher will be lugger home on a shutter.

This isn't to say that this beer parade shouldn't be held. That isn't the point. It's just that—well, doesn't the situation seem just a trifle paradoxical? Or, to put it in plainer English, isn't there something a wee bit cockeyed about the way we do things?

TWELVE LOST YEARS.

That famous novel of two or three years ago, "The Case of Sergeant Grisch," told how the machinery of war can enmesh and destroy a human life with a fiendish thoroughness, even though all of the officials who are handling that machinery have the best of intentions. The other day the newspapers told of a strikingly similar real-life case when they described the plight of Paul Schwartz, the former German soldier who has just been released after serving more than 12 years in Devil's Island prison.

Schwartz was born in Corsica of German parents, and taken to Alsace-Lorraine as a baby. A young man when the war started, he joined the German army, serving until the armistice. Then the French seized him, claimed him as a French citizen and sent him to Devil's Island as a traitor.

There he stayed, innocent of any crime, and utterly forgotten by officialdom, until some functionary happened to remember him the other day. His sentence was promptly commuted, very likely with suave Gallic apologies; but who is going to restore to him those lost 12 years?

CONVENTION BATTLE LOOMS.

It is beginning to look as if the Democratic National Convention this summer would be a more exciting and spirited affair than seemed likely a few weeks ago.

No political convention is really exciting when one candidate has the victory clinched in advance; and until recently it looked very much as though Governor Roosevelt would go to the convention with the nomination practically assured. Recent primary elections, however, have made that seem very much less probable; indeed, it is quite possible that the convention will be the scene of one of the most spirited contests in recent history.

Much can happen, of course, between now and the day the convention meets. But it is hardly likely, any more, that there is going to be a walk-away.

NO PLACE FOR POETRY.

Hart Crane, the poet who lost his life at sea recently in what seems to have been a suicide, complained to friends just before his death that he had grown despondent because "there is no place for poetry in the world today."

This is a complaint that nearly every poet has felt like making, at one time or another; and the peculiar part about it is that it was just as true 20 years ago, or 50 years ago, or 200 years ago as it is now. The world is never ever-kind to poet, or over-eager to get their songs. It prefers to go its own way in peace—for poets disturb it, and make it discontented, and question the values by which it lives.

But the poet sooner or later comes to realize that there is a place for poetry, in spite of the world's indifference. There is a place, that is to say, for songs and dreams, and there always will be; and it is a pitiful tragedy that gifted Hart Crane could not have lived to realize it.

I am deeply convinced that there is altogether too much talk. It is too serious a time to talk unless something serious and constructive is said.—Cardinal William O'Connell of Boston.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Before the water king could go, wee Scoutly shouted loudly, "Oh, please tell us more about this place where you think we should stop." "Are you sure you are being fair?" That is, will we be welcome there? We're out to have some fun and we don't want our plans to flop."

"Don't worry," snapped the water king. "I've told you of a real fine thing. Nobody on the island will harm you in any way."

"And, as I told you all before, there is a lot of fun in store. You've never seen a place where you will find so much real play."

"Well, I believe him," Duncy said. "And I suggest we go ahead and find the little island. I am anxious to get there."

"Let's travel while it's clear and warm. We're lucky we have hit no storm. I don't know what we'd do if rain came falling through the air."

And then they bid the water king goodby. They shortly heard him sing, "Oh, I am king of all the streams. I live down in the sea. 'I'm going to leave you Tinxes now. I'm sure you'll be along somehow. It won't be long until you'll all be glad that you met me.'"

He promptly disappeared from sight and Copsy cried, with all his might, "Come on, strong wind, please blow our boat. We're heading for an isle."

"We want to get there right away 'cause all of us just love to play." Then, suddenly, the wind picked up. This made the Tinxes smile. They sailed about an hour or so. Then Windy shouted, loudly, "Oh! The isle is just ahead of us. This trip will turn out grand."

The wind kept puffing more and more until their boat was up near shore. It didn't take the happy Tinxes very long to land.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — A slender, soft-voiced, black-haired member of congress from Missouri, who spends his spare time delving into musty tomes on parliamentary law when he is not answering letters from constituents, succeeded in throwing the house into the biggest snarl "the hill" has experienced in many years.

He is Clarence Cannon of Elsberry, a five-term member and the House's expert on parliamentary procedure.

Cannon's coup d'état came on the day when the House was asked to adopt a rule calculated to speed up the proposed economy bill as much as possible. And it came with such swiftness and with such logic, it is doubtful whether anyone except Cannon himself knew what it was all about.

It was a parliamentary maneuver executed with the skill of an expert. And after its execution a stunned and baffled House leadership was found lying in its wake.

Cannon's method was simple and dramatic. He bided his time until the speaker was on the verge of putting to a vote the rule that had been condemned as "gagging" the members of the economy bill.

Then he struck. He demanded a separate vote on the so-called "gagging" section of the bill. Bankhead of Alabama, Rankin of Iowa, Tilson of Connecticut, Michener of Michigan, were on their feet instantly shouting objections. They demanded that the speaker declare Cannon out of order; that the whole bill be voted on.

Cannon, smiling and sure of himself, let the storm spend itself. And it was a storm, one of the most turbulent scenes ever witnessed on the floor of the House. Then he quietly began talking to the chair.

He went back to the days when "Uncle Joe" Cannon ruled as the "czar" of the house and read where he as speaker held that the same thing he was asking could be done. And for good measure he cited that Champ Clark as speaker had made a similar ruling.

Garner, with young Lou Deschler, the house parliamentarian, at his side working feverishly, sided with Cannon and the two who preceded him as speaker.

Bill Thown Wide Open—The effect of the whole thing was to remove all restrictions on offering amendments to the economy bill. Where, under the proposed rule, only four amendments to a title could be offered, due to Cannon's smart maneuver the bill is thrown wide open.

The Missouri rarely is heard on the floor except in cases like this. Parliamentary law and parliamentary maneuvering are his chief interests. He has been a student in this field since a young man. He was house parliamentarian under "Uncle Joe" Cannon and Champ Clark. He has served in a similar capacity at every democratic convention since 1920.

There are at least half a dozen books on various phases of parliamentary law on which he has written. And for work in this field he was given an LL. D. degree by his Alma Mater two years ago.

It is interesting, and at times highly amusing, to watch the reaction of the democrats on the hill these days following a particularly significant presidential primary.

As convention time draws nearer and the Smith-Roosevelt fracas becomes more heated, those politically-minded members of Con-don't say much for publication, but among themselves they say a great deal.

Keep A Close Watch—Roosevelt, perhaps, has more out-spoken supporters in the capital than has Smith. There are, for example, men like Senator Dill of Washington, Senator Barkley of Kentucky the Democratic keynoter, and Senator Wheeler of Montana.

But all of them show an interest in the political situation wherever their favorite candidate may be.

They carry tables showing the estimated strength of each candidate around in their pockets. Almost any of them can show you a telegram from someone in "that section" giving the inside dope or tell you about a long distance telephone conversation he had a few hours before that gave good news.

Daily they have visitors from various sections of the country who supply information.

The senate chamber and cloak-rooms serve as a clearing house for all this information. It is here they analyze, debate and worry about the situation.

Friendly Razzing—Their republican colleagues and friends get a big kick out of these little impromptu conferences. Often as one passes a cluster of democrats with their heads together and talking earnestly he indulges in a little friendly razzing.

"You boys would do better if you'd get over to the house side" one republican called to one of these groups the other day, "and keep 'em from doing with the economy bill what they did with the tax bill."

"Wait until the democrats in the house get through," called out another. "Then it won't be important who wins the democratic nomination for president."

But their democratic brethren merely smile and continue earnestly on their way.

ABDOMINAL INJURIES—I

A type of abdominal injury which is the result of a crushing blow and in which the abdominal organs are injured without the abdominal wall being perforated.

The most common direct cause of this type of injury is the automobile.

However, coasting accidents, football and baseball, kicks by domestic animals and falls contribute a certain proportion.

This crushing type of injury was discussed recently by Dr. Hugh Robertson in the American Journal of Surgery.

It is a subject that merits understanding and attention by the lay public, for through an adequate appreciation of this type of accident fatal results may be escaped by prompt and adequate

"WORTHLESS BOOK" MAY BRING MILLIONS TO WENDEL "HEIRS"

By NEA Service—

Los Angeles — A German book, which once seemed worthless, may now be worth millions to its owners.

Years ago Johan Heinrich Fredrick Wendel, a cabinetmaker, lay dying on his bed in Hampton, Ill. He reached under his pillow and handed a dilapidated book to his son Fred Wendel.

"Save this, my son," he said "It may some day mean great riches to you. You are related to the New York Wendels."

Now six residents of this city, including his widow and four children, hope to find that the dilapidated book is an "open sesame" to a great fortune. They expect to find it a key to a portion of the $125,000,000 fortune left by the late Ella Wendel, eccentric New York spinster, who died recently leaving her vast estate to friends and charity.

The six claimants to this vast fortune are Anna Wendel, widow of the late Fred Wendel, Mrs. Helen Hanna, Mrs. Lorene Johnson, Carol Wendel, Fred Wendel and Mrs. Emele Wendel, widow of J. P. Wendel, whom she says was the great uncle of Ella Wendel.

When the will of Ella Wendel is finally probated in New York, these six persons will appear with their counsel, former Judge Ben Lindsey and Edward Hazelton, to claim a portion of the estate.

Don't get the idea that this claim is the only one for the big estate. Reports from New York disclose new claimants every day, and the number has already passed the 2,000 mark. They are represented by more than 500 attorneys and, although many of the claims have been proven false, it may take years to solve the legal tangle.

How the "Wanderbuch," of Johan Wendel, which may prove to be so valuable, links the six Angelenos to this vast fortune is explained by Judge Lindsey.

"This huge fortune was started by John Gottlieb Wendel, a Danish immigrant, who married John Jacob Astor's daughter, Elizabeth," he declares. "He had three children, two of whom died. The third, John Daniel Wendel, was the father of eight children, who died one by one, gradually concentrating the fortune."

When John Wendel came to this country he left behind a brother Jurgen Heinrich Wendel, who developed into a "man of mystery." When Prussia conquered Denmark, he became involved in some kind of trouble and was imprisoned. He escaped but feared to return to Denmark and was officially declared dead in 1850.

Here are two of the Los Angeles claimants of the vast Wendel estate in New York, left to charity and friends by Miss Ella Wendel, shown at lower left. trating the fortune into the hands of Ella Wendel.

"When John Wendel came to this country he left behind a brother Jurgen Heinrich Wendel, who developed into a 'man of mystery.' When Prussia conquered Denmark, he became involved in some kind of trouble and was imprisoned. He escaped but feared to return to Denmark and was officially declared dead in 1850.

in question, though he felt shaken up, did not at once suffer any severe pain.

Several hours later, however, he became nauseated, vomited, complained of sharp pain in his right side and fainted.

When taken to a nearby hospital, a diagnosis was made of rupture of the kidney and this diagnosis was confirmed by operation.

While dwelling on this particular case, it might be pertinent to point out that the rumble seat of an automobile is particularly hazardous, for the low walls are liable to inflict dull crushing injuries when the rider is thrown against them.

Shelby county, Ala., has 168 miles of railroad track, representing four main lines, within its borders.

Do you inhale?

"Why bring that up?" —the cigarette trade asks!

FOR years there has been generally a striking avoidance of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

That's why it's all-important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure that you don't inhale certain impurities.

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it has solved the problem! It gives you the protection you want...because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it! "Fifty million smokers can't be wrong!" So whether you inhale knowingly or unknowingly—safeguard your delicate membranes!

GOD'S WAYS ARE REASONABLE REV. CANTRELL HOLDS

Pleads For Christians To Submit Selves For Service

Evangelist Grady Cantrell preached an appealing sermon to the great audience at the tabernacle last night. His plea for Christians to yield themselves in service to Christ and for others not Christians to yield to Christ was answered by many who came to the Upper Room.

Ray Harris led in an inspiring song service. Dick Choate played a piano solo while the offering was being taken. A delegation of considerable size was present from Freeport.

Jimmie Rice is scheduled to give an exhibition of drumming again at tonight's service. He always pleases his audience.

The evangelist announced that he would preach upon "The Bible, God's Book" on Friday evening "Bring your friends," he urged, and especially if any of them are sceptical. If I don't prove to you that the Bible is God's word, I'll eat my hat in front of the post office.

Sunday, being Mother's Day, the afternoon service for everybody will have special features in honor of mother. And the night service will be specially a Mother's Day meeting with a sermon upon that theme by the evangelist. The choir will render special Mother's Day music.

An event of interest to all the young people will be the conference banquet at the Christian church at 6:00 Monday evening. Rev. Fox, pastor of the Baptist church of Freeport, will be the speaker.

Seventy ladies sat down together at the business women's banquet last evening at 6:45. A very tasty and substantial menu was served by the ladies of the Grace Evangelical church. Rev. Walter W. Marshall, pastor of the First Baptist church, was the speaker of the evening. Mrs. J. E. Reagan contributed a reading which delighted the company. The last of the series of business women's banquets in charge of Mrs. Ray Harris will be served at the Christian church at Wednesday evening.

Rev. Cantrell chose his text for last night's sermon from Romans, 12:1-5—"I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice to God, holy, acceptable to Him, which is your reasonable service."

"Lots of people think God's ways are unreasonable," he said, "but if you will follow them to the end you will see that they are always reasonable. Paul says the yielding of our bodies to God is a reasonable service. Some folks can't understand it. I confess that before I was converted there were many things like this in the Bible that puzzled me and I thought they were unreasonable. But now I understand differently, because I learned to seek out what God was trying to do—the end He had in view."

Noah and the Flood

"When God told Noah to build an ark on dry ground, it was about the most unreasonable thing to ask that one can imagine. But not when you consider the flood. In view of what happened it was the most reasonable thing. Old Noah's neighbors thought he was about the most silly, old fool the world had yet produced. They laughed at him and mocked him. But did he quit? Not on your life. A few years later that Godless bunch would have given all they possessed for standing room in the old ark. But too late."

"Soon after I was converted an old skeptic came up to me and asked if I believed that yarn about Noah and the ark. I told him 'Sure, why not?' He asked me the dimensions of the ark. I got the Bible and read it to him. He said: 'do you realize that there are over one hundred thousand species of animals and insects, and how could old Noah get them in that boat?' It was a poser. But I said, 'I will give you my answer tomorrow. I thought it over. Then I got down to figuring. I began writing down the big animals. I was surprised to find how few there are of the size of the elephant, the camel, the horse, the cow, the sheep, dogs, and that class. But there are plenty of the smaller ones, especially the insects. You could put thousands of them in a hat. Noah could store them away in nooks and corners on the elephants' backs and other convenient places. I reckon he stored a couple of fleas on the back of that elephant and they liked it so well they have stayed there ever since. I have often wondered why Noah didn't swat those mosquitoes when he had such a good chance to put 'em out of business.'"

"But it is all very reasonable when you see what God had in mind and the outcome of it. The old earth had to be purged and the devil's generation wiped out."

Can't Shift Responsibility

"God had 'present your bodies to him, your own, not somebody's else' man recently remarked to me how his wife and two boys were good church members and were faithful to their church. 'But said he, 'I do not do much in that line. It's all right, but I never have joined any church. I reckon my family will represent me.' Sure, they will, and they will represent you in Heaven, brother, while you are still on the outside."

"Just preceding the Spanish American War, my father was a principal in a school. He was strong for war with Spain. He urged it, wrote articles for the papers and advocated war at every opportunity. There was a young professor in the same school who was against it. When war came my father could not go because he had a big responsibility on his hands about two feet long in the person of a baby, 'Little Grady.' It would not have been fair to me nor to mother for him to go. But the young professor went and they shipped him back in a box. He didn't want war but when the call came he presented his body to his country and made the supreme sacrifice."

"The World War came on. I noticed dad wasn't hollering for it like all the rest. I said, 'dad, what is the matter with you, aren't you for Uncle Sam in this emergency?' He told me the story of the young professor and said, 'son, I learned my lesson. I will never urge anybody to go to war until I can first go down to the recruiting office and sign on the dotted line and offer my own life first.' Christians can expect to win others to Christ's service unless we are first willing to lay our own lives on the altar. The Upper Room Consecration service we are holding here each night is to enable you church members to realize what it means to offer yourself in service to Christ."

The Mercies of God.

"Did you ever stop to realize how many mercies God has bestowed upon you? Do you ever thank God that you have a brain—a mind? How different it makes you from the animals. Do you ever stop to think about the numberless blessings you have in life because of the power of man's brain. All progress is based upon it. Do you thank Him for your muscles. How wonderfully He has arranged them, some voluntary, some involuntary. It is a good thing that God made the muscles of your heart and lungs to work independently of your reason. You don't have to worry whether you will forget to breathe or that you will forget to have your heart beat. God has fixed all that. His same care is seen in nature. Behold the manifold mercies of God about us!"

"Christ's service is a reasonable one. It is a service that helps others. It passes on the blessings to others. It helps to raise the level of human life, to set it free from evil and elevate it to higher moral and spiritual planes."

"Once I thought the fact of Jesus being born in a stable was unreasonable. But I know differently now. It could not have been otherwise. If He had been born in the big hotel and you would have come to see him, you would have been turned back by the cordon of bellhops and attendants. Christ born in a manger was accessible for rich and poor alike. No man was too poor or humble but that could feel free to come to him in the stable. From the wise men to the lowly shepherds they all felt welcome. So our Christ is the accessible Savior. He can be approached by great and small alike and they will feel at home with him. And in none other is there Salvation."

GARNER COUNTED BACK IN RACE AS RESULT VICTORY

Capture Of California Delegation Boosts Speaker's Stock

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With clear cut victory in California's presidential primary perched on his standard, Speaker John N. Garner of Texas today was counted back among the Democratic nomination possibilities.

His own state's assured 46 convention votes, plus the California 44 gave him second place in the running, behind Franklin D. Roosevelt's 313. Behind him came J. Hamilton, Lewis, 58; Alfred E. Smith 46; James A. Reed 36; William H. Murray 23. Smith lay pass the Garner mark, however.

Every prospect is for the nomination to depend upon a contest in the national convention at Chicago, though Roosevelt supporters, angling for the favorite son votes of Illinois, Ohio, Virginia, and others, insisted all that the California defeat meant was probable failure to win the nomination on the first ballot. Suggestion of a Roosevelt-Garner ticket came from Lewis, Illinois' favorite son.

Smith forces, not expectant of nomination for their leader, expressed jubilation at the Roosevelt defeat, as a positive stopper of his runaway pre-convention race.

Of the votes not yet assigned, 188 delegates have been chosen but are in the doubtful class, and 446 remain to be selected, including the Texan pledged to Garner, who will be chosen in state convention May 24.

MARGIN OVER 45,000

San Francisco, May 5—(AP)—California's 44 votes for president in the Democratic national convention were lined up today for Speaker John N. Garner as the result of the clear-cut victory of his ticket over those of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith in the state presidential primary.

The Texan's margin of victory over Roosevelt, his closest contender, was more than 45,000 votes with only 375 isolated precincts unreported. There was no chance these precincts would materially change the result.

The Speaker of the House received more than half of his total vote in Los Angeles county, which holds approximately 40 per cent of the voting power of the state, and carried all but two of the southern counties, San Diego and Kern.

Roosevelt got pluralities in 37 of the state's 58 counties and Garner carried 17.

With 9,896 of the 10,271 precincts counted the vote stood:

Garner 214,547
Roosevelt 169,219
Smith 137,420

Chicago Milk War To Arbitration

Chicago, May 5—(AP)—A controversy between dairy farmers and Chicago retail milk dealers, over a proposed cut in the whole sale price of milk has been submitted to arbitration.

The wholesale price cut had been proposed by the retail dealers to the Pure Milk Association, which represents about 18,000 dairy farmers of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and some in southern Michigan who supply the Chicago market.

The reduction was the fourth the farmers have been asked to accept since 1929. Dr. King, an economist of the Wharton School of Finance in the eastern city, has a standing contract as arbiter in milk disputes here.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and mung and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of bile freely and make you feel fine.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a sick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Don't substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

CAPONE BEGAN NEW LIFE AS CONVICT 40886

Gang Czar Loses His Identity In Federal Prison

Atlanta, May 5—(AP)—"Scarface Al" Capone began a new life today as convict No. 40886 in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

The Chicago gang leader was just one of 3100 as he was put through examinations to see where he would fit into the prison microcosm.

Capone stepped into the prison office last night and as far as the public was concerned he might have been stepping from the face of the earth for a period of about seven and a half years, long enough for even the notoriety of a Capone to become dim.

As Capone began serving his eleven-year sentence for income tax evasion his story became the story of all the other prisoners.

It starts with first call at 4:45 o'clock in the morning and ends with "lights out" at 9 P. M. It includes meals at about 22 cents per prisoner per day, work in the various prison shops or at odd jobs, and possibly an evening's entertainment of moving pictures, boxing or amateur theatricals.

Capone checked in his flashy and expensive clothing and was given a uniform of cotton shirt, trousers and jacket, all grayish blue. He must submit to a prison haircut and remain in quarantine for three or four weeks.

He can expect an assignment at the end of that period to either the laundry or the tailor shop. If he behaves himself and shows ability he can look forward to a clerical job or work in the library with opportunities for study and reading.

Wedding Day Ahead for Her

Matrimony soon will claim Ann Marie Homer (shown here), a daughter of Mme. Louise Homer, famed opera and concert singer. She is to wed Robert Warner of Boston at the Homer summer home at Lake George, N. Y.

LEO A. SMITH, PUBLISHER OF THE SANTA PAULA (CALIFORNIA) CHRONICLE, SAYS:

THAT despite the radio, folks today still rely on the newspaper to give them the real news. They get a smattering of news over the radio. It is only a sample. They are anxious to read all the facts that they know will appear in their newspaper.

The newspaper reader is aware that his newspaper is a known factor and that it places its reading matter in black and white on the printed page and is in fact on record for every word it publishes. Therefore, care is taken in the publication of all news matter to make certain that it is correct in every way.

Nothing can fully fill the place in our American life that is today held by the newspaper. It will always be the "old reliable."

Therefore, it will always be the only real time tried and proven medium for advertising placed with an idea of having it pay. It will always bring its advertisers results, and, in most instances, TANGIBLE RESULTS.

"The old reliable," your newspaper, particularly your own home town daily or weekly will live on and on, for it can't be beat as a news or an advertising medium.

God's Garden

The following lines were written by Herbert Conner of Amboy on the death of one of two daughters of a pastor of the Methodist church in that city.

There were two of them; they grew on the roadside in the garden of two loving hearts. The sunshine of early dawn, of noon and the mists of the closing day shone upon them alike. Their foliage grew apace and made the pathway of those who journeyed that way one of pleasure and delight.

They were God's plants.

Under loving care they were cultivated and protected by two of God's children, who had been sent there by the Master above. These children made them grow in beautiful perfection, until the plants blossomed. Each had a flower suited to its own loveliness, and each vying with the other as to which would send the most fragrance into the air, and beauty on earth. These plants were cared for alike by these children of men. Their tears of joy watered these plants until all nature shouted with joy at their beauty. These children were the Children of God.

So fragrant were these blossoms and so perfect their colors and form, that they drew the attention and admiration of all who passed that way. Their exotic perfume, and forms of grace that permeated and sparkled in the morning sun, made the passer-by reach out his hands to fondle with loving tenderness.

They were God's Flowers.

Up in Heaven where the Master reigns supreme, are gathered the wonderful collection of earth's most beautiful flowers, which have been transplanted from the kingdom below. These blossoms will live forever, and their fragrance will be everlasting. They never wither or die. Their purity shall represent the souls of earth's inhabitants. They are Eternal. This is God's Garden.

One day while looking over this vast array of beautiful plants, The Master thought that an improvement could be made by the addition of one other plant. It must be a stately one; one with graceful lines and fragrant perfume, so that it might all be perfection in His Heavenly Home. He called in his messenger, death, and bade him go down to earth and bring him one of earth's most beautiful blossoms: One that had been most loved for its earthly perfection and purity. Transplant this flower to His Heavenly Kingdom and its beauty will shine and glow among the Kingdom's most favored flowers. Forth with the messenger did as The Master bade, and Heavenly joy reigned supreme. It was God's will.

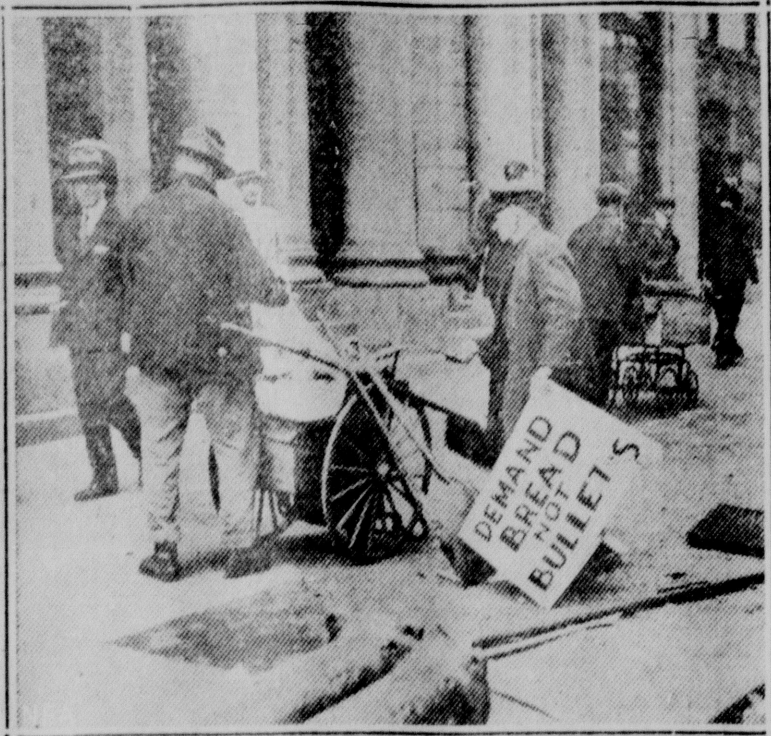

Down on earth there was but one flower growing where there had been two before. The two children of God, who had watched the messenger of The Master transplant their lovely plant from its place beside their pathway, to the great garden above, were stricken with grief; their tears flowed in the dusk where a little time before their beloved blossom had grown. Then God in His goodness, sent his messenger, love, who told them how wonderfully radiant their darling plant looked placed, as it remains, in its new home. And, indeed, among the most beautiful flowers of the Kingdom of God, Thy Will be done, not ours.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE CHICAGO

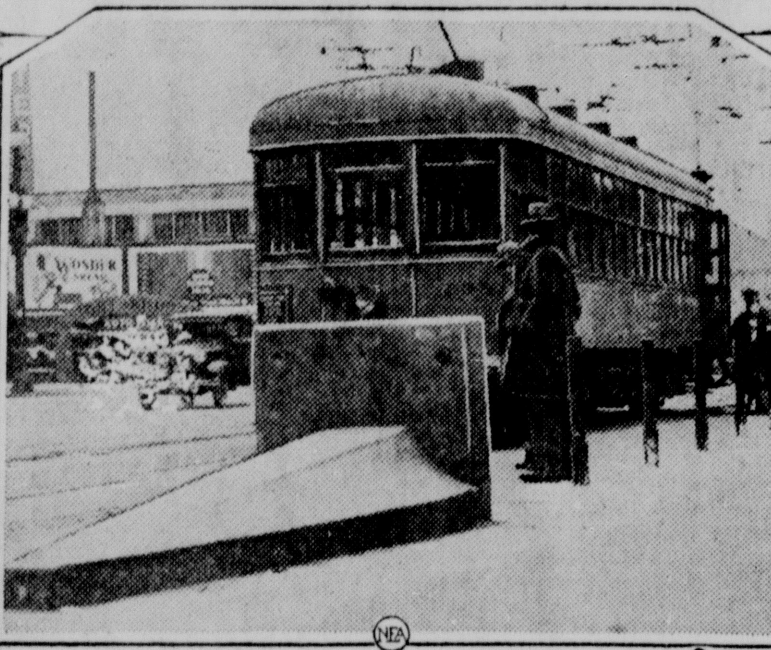

George M. Cohan, after an absence of almost two years, returns to the Grand Opera House, Chicago, Sunday night, (May 8), in a comedy of his own writing which he has titled "Confidential Serv-

Red Riots? Oh, Rubbish!

Waving banners, swinging night-sticks, jeering throngs, harried cops... then the street cleaners unemotionally move in to erase evidence of another red riot. That was the sardonic aftermath (pictured here) of the Communist-inspired unemployment demonstration which resulted in the injury of a score of persons and the arrest of 24 in Philadelphia the other day. Note the broken banner, "Demand Bread Not Bullets."

This Will Shock 'Em

If motorists try to crash through this new safety isle just completed in Salt Lake City, they've got a rude shock coming to them. It is built with a reinforced concrete abutment, holding steel sleeves which support steel posts forming its outer barrier. It will resist the impact of a car going at a very high rate of speed.

ice", a timely story of certain phases of modern life as only Cohan can tell it. This production is to mark the first of several offerings Mr. Cohan has in preparation for his New York season, next August.

The Chicago engagement is a limited one and is prior to its New York presentation.

"Confidential Service" is a modern story, in which novelty settings and the story telling are paramount. Not since the celebrated "On Trial" has Mr. Cohan made use of quick "blackouts" in a straight play. In his new vehicle he successfully introduces an "old treatment" of sudden scenic changes with new devices.

Surrounding and supporting him are a notable array of former Cohan favorites, including Selena Royle, Elsie Lawson, Charles Trowbridge, Arthur Hohl, Helen Wallace, Mark Sullivan, Hans Robert Sam Forrest did the directing, Howard Gibson, Sam Forrest did the directing. With the exception of the Messrs. Hohl and Trowbridge, the remainder of the cast have appeared in former Cohan productions. Miss Royle was seen in "Yellow", Miss Lawson in "Whispering Friends," Mark Sullivan in the recent "Gambling" and Mr. Robert in "On Trial." Incidentally, Charles Trowbridge will be remembered for his capital performance of the harassed husband opposite Chrystal Herne in "Craig's Wife."

Mr. Cohan has been out of the picture, so to speak, all season, but he has been actively engaged in writing. Shortly after Christmas he returned from Europe, and in recent weeks he has been outlining an active campaign for the spring and summer.

"Next season is to see an adjustment of all stage ills," he commented, "and I want an early start."

Popular Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given.

IF a farmer bought his fence posts like an engineer does telegraph poles; if he tested each kind of wood for strength; if he demanded a certain time of seasoning; if he insisted on a certain grade of creosote and so many pounds of pressure to the cubic foot—he would buy fence posts identified by the Long-Bell Silver Spot and backed by our recommendation. Then he would be positive of receiving the maximum service at the minimum cost.

I WANT no road that's only straight. With dust clouds whitely blowing. None such as these can lead my feet. To where my heart is going.

But let me find a twisty path. That keeps on crying "follow." And rushes up a mist-white hill. Or drops to dew-wet hollow.

Or guides me to a place offends. I had not thought to see. However crookedly it runs. It's straight enough for me.

Cupid's Business Good At Office Of Woman Magistrate

Wilkesboro, N. C. —(AP)—The marrying magistrate in this case is a woman—Miss Gail Bumgarner. Three hundred twenty-five wedding ceremonies have been performed by Miss Bumgarner since she became a magistrate in 1929, and a glance at her record books shows Cupid's business is good.

Miss Bumgarner said there is "nothing unusual about my marriage ceremonies. They are part of the daily routine in my office."

The young magistrate said she had faced couples from the age of 16 to brides and grooms of 80, at all hours of the day and night, but never since the first ceremony she added, has she been in the least nervous.

Miss Bumgarner said she always included the word "obey" in her ceremonies, "but it is not for me to know if every word of the solemn vow is kept by my couples."

Wedding Rings Lose Favor With British Couples

London —(AP)—There are fewer and fewer wedding rings among London newlyweds these days. "I have married as many as three couples in a short while in which no wedding rings were given," a London West End registrar comments.

"The plain gold band went out of fashion some time ago and the platinum ring took its place. Even this is now being dispensed with. It may be that modern brides do not like plain ornaments."

Captain Archer's Daughter

Young Mrs. Meigs Corbett.

Mrs. Meigs, at 80, is a "grand old girl," really the youngest in the family. Her two problems in this story are to help Cecile, who is deeply in love, and to avoid living with her children.

Famous Sheriffs and Western

Outlaws Raine.

If you are interested in reading about the wild west when it was really wild, you won't want to miss this one. The writer of a long list of western stories of fiction and fact, sketches in brief the violent careers of some famous outlaws and the sheriffs who hunted them down.

Travelers Tales Adams.

This book is a storehouse of romance that will delight readers who have not grown too old to be interested in the fantastic lore of Capt. Cook, Baron Munchausen, Marco Polo, Sinbad, Livingstone, etc. Chapter heads include: strange quests, strange lands, strange men and monsters, etc. There doesn't seem to be anything queer not included by Mr. Adams.

William Crawford Gorgas—Gorgas.

The experiences of the distinguished American army surgeon who made possible the building of the Panama canal by removing the greatest obstacle to its success—yellow fever. The greater part of the book is given to his work as chief sanitary officer at Havana and in the canal zone where the fight he waged was not along with mosquitoes, but also with stupid and hostile officialdom.

Drake's Encyclopedia of Radio and Electronics Manly.

A dictionary of radio transmission and reception, broadcasting, aviation, navigation, sound pictures, etc. Illustrated with numerous drawings and diagrams.

Furniture Finishing, Decoration & Patching Peffer.

A few of the subjects discussed: removing old finishes, fillers, shellacs, lacquer, stain, first coat, second coat, rubbing, antique, dusting, stippling, glazing, polychrome, stenciling, delomonia transfers, patching, care and repair of wicker furniture, metal furniture, upholstered furniture, mirror resilvering, etc.

China: The Collapse of a Civilization Peffer.

The author presents the effects of a conflict of civilizations in the impact of western military power, economic invasion, industrialism and ideas. He admits ghastly realities, sees responsibilities, yet scolds neither Chinese nor foreigners—which makes the book unique among books about China.

Buddle Wallace.

Another nipping, football story for boys, by the author of O'Reilly of Notre Dame.

Katherine Gordon, patriot Crowneid.

The heroine is a lovely and heroic southern girl whose home in Charleston is burned during the siege by the British soldiers, whose father is imprisoned, and whose brother is made to appear a traitor by the clever scheming of a British officer. Not only a fascinating and dramatic story for girls, but accurate in historical background.

Bright Skin—Julia Peterkin.

An idyl of plantation life which attains drama near the end. Cricket, who has a bright skin, is an attractive and pathetic figure, and the story of her love affair with Blue, a black boy is very moving. Although the account is pitched in a minor key, and its assured progress puts one in the mood of life it depicts, one never forgets the depths of passion underneath.

Arranways Mystery—Edgar Wallace.

Rennett of the American Police and Collett of Scotland Yard were both interested in the murder at Sketchley—but why were they both on the spot BEFORE the killing?

Young Die Good—Nancy Hale.

A 1932 model Manhattan love story, sparkling, witty, with faintly bitter overtones. The hero, a novelist, the heroine, a model.

Yuan Hee See Laughs—Sax Rohmer.

Not since the sinister Dr. Fu Manchu himself has there been a more fascinating villain than Yuan Hee See, who moves like a lark cloud through the breathless pages of this new book of mystery and adventure.

Way of a Lancer—Boleslavski.

The author, who is now director of the Moscow Art Theater, was an officer in the Polish Lancers, a regiment of super-horsemen and invincible morale. After the collapse of the Russian army during the World War, the Poles were out of sympathy with the revolutionary forces and fought their way home through the chaotic troops of the enemy. There are episodes of shocking brutality, and others of compensating tenderness.

Roaming American Highways—Takis.

Traverse America back and forth, up and down, from Maine to Florida, by the Atlantic, the Dixie and Pacific Highways, by the Old Spanish Trail, by the Lincoln Highway, the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean Highway, and the rest. Read it before you go on your vacation.

MISFORTUNE IS HOVERING OVER DERBY WINNERS

Universe Is Latest To Suffer Injury In Pre-Race Trials

By C. ROBERT KAY
Associated Press Staff Writer
Louisville, Ky., May 5.—(AP)—Disastrous pre-derby training campaigns of three leading eligibles have resulted in Mrs. L. G. Kaufman's Tick On, becoming almost a stand-out favorite to capture the fifty-fifth Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs Saturday.

The latest Derby nominee overtaken by misfortune is T. M. Cassidy's Universe, which was slightly injured today after wrenching a joint in his left foreleg in a workout yesterday. Universe, winner of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, is secondary favorite to Tick On in the future book odds.

Dr. N. E. Southard, veterinarian, said there was a "good possibility" Universe could start in the Derby, but the railbirds were shaking their heads gloomily over the chances of the Loma Stable's nominee recovering sufficiently to run his best race Saturday.

If Universe is withdrawn from the Derby, he will be the third ranking contender eliminated in the strenuous training campaigns for this year's renewal of the historic $500,000 stake. The Shandon Farm's Burning Blaze, principal hope of the west, was crippled while racing at the Downs Saturday, and Tony Flight, C. V. Whitney's leading juvenile of last year, was withdrawn from the Derby after running fourth in the Wood Memorial which Universe won.

Tick On though beaten in his only start of the year, is favorite on the basis of his two-year-old winnings of $57,350 and as a result of his demonstrating top form in workouts at the Downs. Tick On was given his final intensive Derby prep yesterday, working the full Derby distance of a mile and a quarter in 2:07, only a short morning gallop the day before the race remains to top off his training.

Col. E. R. Bradley's Burgoon King and Brother Joe also wound up their intensive training. Burgoon King in the mile and a quarter in 2:06 and Brother Joe in 2:09. The Brandon Stable's Brandon Mint worked the distance in 2:09 3/5 and R. M. Eastman's Cathoon in 2:09 4/5.

The Three D's Stable's Liberty Limited, which has suffered sore heels on and off for the past ten days, appeared today to have entirely recovered. Trained Johnny Schorr said "The Limited" was a certain Derby starter, and the "wise boys" have set him down as a sleeper which might wake up on Derby Day and capture the big prize.

Baseball Gossip

By GAYLE TALBOT
Having won their spurs in the east, Bill McKee's Boston Braves invaded the western strongholds of the National League today for a whirlwind two-week campaign that will prove pretty definitely whether they can "take it."

In that time the current leaders will meet all four western members, including their closest rivals, the Chicago Cubs, and the champion St. Louis Cardinals. If the Braves hold their own somebody will have to take them very seriously.

They open their fight for vindication today against the Cincinnati Reds, while the Phillies engage Pittsburgh, the Giants move into St. Louis and the Brooklyn Dodgers hope for the best at Chicago.

Vet Rookie Shines
In their parting shot at sectional neighbors yesterday the Braves flattened the Phillies, 3 to 0. Huck Betts, the veteran rookie, turned in his third consecutive victory as he held the slugging Phils to four hits.

The Cardinals shoved up into the first division with their second straight shut-out over Cincinnati, 7 to 0. Flint Rhem be-

Warnecke Wins Fourth
The youngster, Lon Warnecke, recorded his fourth victory as the Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 4 to 1. He scattered six hits and received noble support, while the Pirates defense cracked at crucial moments behind Larry French.

Brooklyn and New York spent the day traveling west. The Cleveland Indians, sharing second place and the leadership of the American League's western division with the Detroit Tigers, defeated the Browns, 8 to 3, on the eve of their first visit to the seaboard.

It was their tenth victory in their last eleven starts. They will make their first stand against the Athletics today. John Stone's home run in the seventh inning with two aboard enabled the Detroit Tigers to come from behind and take their final from the White Sox, 8 to 7. Stanley Harris' troupe opens with the Yankees tomorrow.

The four eastern clubs were unscheduled, but the Yanks sharpened their batting eyes in a 5 to 3 exhibition victory over Bridgeport of the Eastern League.

TO WELCOME HACK
Chicago, May 5.—(AP)—Dressed in a Brooklyn uniform, Hack Wilson came back today to Wrigley Field, the scene of his rise and fall in baseball, and all his cheerers and jeers reported themselves ready for a welcoming "celebration."

The big little fellow always was a center of attraction during his career in a Cub uniform at Wrigley Field. His appearance at the plate usually called for cheers or boos. When he hit a home run, his admirers whooped it up, when he struck out, his booing section got its money's worth.

So today all the Cub fans planned to welcome him in old time fashion as the Robins opened their initial series of the season at Wrigley Field.

SEEDS CAN GO—
The speed of the Bob Seeds will add much to the White Sox outfield. Just to make a brash prediction, they will be ranking Mr. Seeds very soon with such outfielders as Mule Haas. And they are ranking the Mule pretty high.

In some parts of the bleachers you can pick up the information that Haas is the greatest center fielder since Tris Speaker.

SAVING BALL GAMES—
A great many ball games are saved in center field. Mule Haas saved this year from the Yankees. A couple of long drives of Ruth's to the remotest reach in center field, would have broken up the games in which they were made if Haas had not been there.

Callahan is shown above beside the casket while Baby Ginter lies in state. Tiffin residents gaped at the display.

Hooks and Slides

A WORD FROM CONNIE—

Mr. Mack took his Athletics into the clubhouse the other day, locked the doors and poured a few gentle remonstrances into their ears. What Mack said is not recorded, for in all the 30 years that Mack has been delivering such lectures, nothing of what he spoke has been made public. But after the talk, several of the players, including Bing Miller and Al Simmons went out on the diamond for a workout, even though it was raining at the time.

COLLAPSE?

Many baseball writers already have heralded the collapse of the Athletics, based upon the performance of the team during the first few weeks of play. It is still too early to say. The A's can become uncoupled very quickly when Al Simmons starts hitting, which he usually does about May 1.

THEY LIKE HAFEY—

Cincinnati has taken Chick Hafey, former Cardinal slugger, into its arms. In his first appearance he indicated there was nothing at all the matter with his eyes. He backed unerringly up the slope in the Red's left field for a long drive. And has he been hitting!

ST. LOUIS SORRY—

It might seem far-fetched to say that when the Cardinals traded Hafey to the Reds they put some silver into the pocket of Phil Ball, owner of the Browns. But that is exactly the case. A large group of St. Louis fans, in protest at the handling of Hafey, received, despoiled the Browns and now unboard their nickels to watch the Browns.

KRESS GETS WISH—

Ralph Kress, traded to the White Sox for Hazy and Campbell, was dissatisfied at St. Louis. He did not try to keep that fact a secret, either. St. Louis club officials looked upon the redhead as a "disgruntled ball player." And for several years Bill Killefer has been sweet on Bum Hadley as a pitcher, though Hadley inevitably disappointed Washington, where a great deal was expected of him.

Now the White Sox infield compares favorably with any in the league, with Lu Blue at first base, Johnny Hodapp or Luke Appling at second, Kress or Appling at short and Carey Selph at third. Appling has shown great improvement—It is the belief of Lew Fon-

Special Fee For Hunters Is Walton's Choice

Chicago—With sportsmen in the United States having indicated their willingness to pay an annual fee of some kind to hunt ducks, the fees to be used to purchase waterfowl sanctuaries, the Izak Walton League recently went on record for this principle, says a bulletin issued from National Headquarters of the League. This recent attacks against the one cent per shell tax bill which was introduced into Congress and which was condemned as unfair by nearly all the sportsmen and conservationists who appeared before the Senate's Special Wild Life Conservation Committee hearing in Washington.

The League, according to a statement of M. K. Reckford, general manager, adopted a resolution at its recent convention in favor of a special annual fee to take migratory birds, this fee to be collected either as a special individual license or a special adhesive stamp to be attached to a state hunting license.

The resolution favoring this method of raising money for sanctuaries, with the duck hunters paying for improvements in their own sport is in part as follows:

WHEREAS, it appears unlikely that Congress in the present session will appropriate funds in the general budget for each purpose and funds must be provided from special sources for this conservation project:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the Izak Walton League of America, in its 10th Annual Convention assembled favors in principle the raising of funds for sanctuaries by the imposition of an annual Federal fee payable by all persons taking migratory birds.

thing drastic had to be done about the quota of 53 on the card for today. The officials set up two rings in the big hall of Madison Square Garden, for the purpose of having fighters into both as fast as possible all day and all night, starting at noon.

Tonight, if any are awake, there will be 32 survivors, ready for the semi-finals and finals Friday night.

STIFF CONTESTS WILL FEATURE MEET SATURDAY

Track Stars Of High School Conference To Compete Here

Feature of the northern Illinois prep events this week the North Central Illinois Conference track and field contest on the Dixon field Saturday should attract many fans from the surrounding territory.

Belvidere, Mendota, Sterling, DeKalb and Dixon have entries in the meet. Mendota and Belvidere are given only an outside chance to win with a close race in view for the other trio of schools.

Sterling was the 1931 victor but will have stiffer opposition to subdue Saturday. They lost two valuable men in Overholser and Klingner. DeKalb was in second position but must replace Nori, a very capable performer. Dixon placed third, six points behind DeKalb. Plowman has departed but all-around strength makes up his and other losses. Belvidere has three good men in H. King, A. King and Whitehead. Mendota's only hope is Howarth in the hurdles and Newman in the shot put. Rochelle has abandoned track this year in favor of baseball.

If favorable weather results some new records should be established. The broad jump, half-mile, mile, discus, mile and 100 yard dash marks may find new claimants after Saturday's work.

The prelims will be held Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. At 2:00 p. m. the finals will be in form. Fred Parker of Mt. Morris will act as referee and starter.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

Cobras cause something like 20,000 deaths in India every year, and some years ago the government adopted a measure to rid the country of them. A bounty was paid on all poisonous snakes brought in. But the plan was a failure, for the natives took to breeding cobras in captivity, and snake farms sprang up all over India.

Lejeune Got "Thriller"
After War Was Over
When General Lejeune was asked to relate his most thrilling war experience he smiled and said:

"It did not come in the war, but after it, when the troops of occupation were passing through Belgium. We were given a wonderful reception and in one city I was on the platform and had to make a speech. When I had finished our chaplain arose and to my amazement and horror announced that Mlle. Clementine, the famous dancer who was traveling with me, would entertain with some of her inimitable dances.

"And how she danced, while I sat there in horror, knowing that my reputation was ruined beyond repair.

"Imagine, then, my relief when, at the end of the dance, Mlle. Clementine removed a very pretentious wig and I recognized the close-cropped black head and smiling countenance of my very masculine soldier-cook and the chaplain explained the joke to the audience.

"Ah," I exclaimed, jumping to my feet, "if he only could cook as well as he dances war would almost be a pleasure."

Greatly surprised Maurice said gently: "Of course I will! What is it that you are so sorry for?"

"Well, you know the letter you gave me to take to that house over there? The fact is, I didn't take it."

"Why not?"

"Oh," went on John, the conscience-stricken, "Steve Boswick met me on the street, right over there; he was just after coming out of that house. I asked him where

A Washington Square Idyl

By H. IRVING KING

NIGHT had fallen over the city and the benches of Washington square were beginning to fill up with the variegated assortment of men who filled them when darkness made its daily and punctual arrival. On one bench, facing that intensely respectable row of old brick mansions which line the north side of the square sat a young man of perhaps thirty, whose dress and general appearance caused passersby to glance at him wonderingly—he was so evidently out of harmony with the usual frequenters of the place. Maurice Davenport seemed unaware of the interest he aroused. His eyes were fixed upon the lighted windows of a mansion opposite. In the house upon which his eyes were fixed lived Mabel Harrison and six months before he had written her a letter offering her his heart and begging for her hand. Why he had written instead of making his avowal by word of mouth he could not say, except that he was of a rather bashful nature and had thought it more easy to say what he had to say in writing. The night before he had written the fateful letter he had said to Mabel in taking leave of her for the evening: "I am going to send you a letter tomorrow, Mabel, and I hope that your answer will be such as my very soul desires." And Mabel had replied with a smile: "Go home and sleep well, Maurice. I can guess what the nature of your letter will be, and—good-night!"

He had gone away buoyed up with hope. He had written the letter and sent it by messenger. But to it he had received no reply. His messenger, a clerk in his office, came back and said that, as directed, he had delivered the missive into the young lady's own hand; that she had read it and had said: "Tell Mr. Davenport that there is no answer." The shock had been terrible. Two weeks later he saw in the paper that she had sailed with her father and mother for Europe. And now, that very day, he had seen in the paper that the Harrisons had arrived home. Scarcely aware of what he did he had wandered to the square and sat gazing at the house which held all that he loved.

A tall, lanky, shabbily dressed young man came and took a seat by Maurice's side.

"Got a match, Bo?" asked the youth.

Mechanically, Maurice handed the intruder his match case. As he did so the youth got a good look at Maurice's face and gave an exclamation of surprise. Maurice looked and said: "Why, are you not John Davis? You used to be in my office, I think."

"Yes," hesitated the youth. "I am John; but I didn't recognize you at first."

"You left me, I think, to go with Boswick & Claffin, did you not?"

"Yes, I did," replied John, "and I wish I'd never done it. I ain't had no luck since, Boswick is dead."

"Perhaps I can find room for you in the office again," said Maurice.

The youth began to cry. "I ain't worth it," sobbed he. "I played a low-down trick on you, I'm broken down and weak, or I wouldn't cry so, either. But, somehow, I got to tell you. Will you give me another chance?"

Greatly surprised Maurice said gently: "Of course I will! What is it that you are so sorry for?"

"Well, you know the letter you gave me to take to that house over there? The fact is, I didn't take it."

"Why not?"

"Oh," went on John, the conscience-stricken, "Steve Boswick met me on the street, right over there; he was just after coming out of that house. I asked him where the number I was after was, and showed him the letter. He thought a moment, and then offered me a hundred dollars and a job in his office if I would give the letter to him and tell you that I had delivered it. And I fell for it. As long as Steve lived it was all right. But when he was killed they sacked me."

"Come with me," said Maurice, and strode across to the brick mansion, John following him in fear and trembling. A few minutes later Maurice and Mabel stood confronting each other in the drawing room. She looked worn and pale, but her self-command was perfect. Then Maurice broke out impetuously and told her the whole story of the letter and the faithful messenger. Turning to the door he called in John, whom he had left in the hall, and made him repeat his confession of guilt.

Life, happiness and color came back to Mabel's face as she listened. "I thought it very strange; but, oh, Maurice, how could I have doubted you? Stephen Boswick proposed to me and I had just rejected his suit when this unfortunate young man met him coming from this house."

"Come to my office tomorrow morning and I will talk further with you—now go," said Maurice to John, and John went.

But Maurice lingered.

Even Primitive Peoples Had Reckoning Systems

There have been systems of reckoning time found among the records left by the most primitive peoples. Well regulated systems existed in the Egyptian, Babylonian, Syrian and many other early nations. The Roman and Greek calendars were taken from the Egyptian, Babylonian, Phoenician. The Julian calendar was derived from these and from the ancient Roman calendar and was proclaimed about B. C. 46. Pope Gregory in 1555 A. D. authorized the revision of the Julian calendar, which was adopted by the Roman Catholic countries, but not by Great Britain or America until 1752. By this time there was a variance between the calendars of those nations and those adopting the Gregorian calendar at the earlier date, necessitating an adjustment of 11 days. The Gregorian calendar has now been adopted by practically all the Christian nations and for business purposes by such nations as Japan and China.

Waring meets Denise at a New Year's party and she indirectly tells she has married in Susan's and Bob's love affair.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII

It was one of those sharp bitter days of late January. Snow had fallen the day before and over night had changed into sleet. The pavements were an icy menace along which taxicabs cautiously slid. At five o'clock Susan looked out and shivered, dreading the walk to the street car. For the past half hour she had noticed Mr. Heath fussing about in his own office. There did not seem to be any particular reason for his lingering. She was putting on her hat when he appeared in the doorway.

"Miss Carey, I have the car and it's a wretched night. Let me drop you at your home."

Surprise showed in the girl's face. "Oh, that's awfully kind of you but isn't it out of your way?"

"Not at all. I should be very happy to do it. Just one moment and I'll be with you."

They rode down in the elevator together, the girl, as always, more than a little shy with this man Simon, waiting in the sleet, sprang down to open the door for them. He tucked a thick, soft rug around Susan's knees.

"Are you quite comfortable?" Susan said she was. She felt as warm as toast.

"Good." Her employer's voice was brisk and business-like as ever. "I wanted especially to talk to you, he went on, still in that quiet, impersonal way. The girl waited silently. She loved the luxury of this car, the rich robe under her fingers. She was quite unprepared for what was to follow.

Abruptly the man blurted out. "You knew, didn't you, that Mrs. Heath's term of residence in Reno will be over next week?"

"No, I didn't know that," Susan looked at him innocently.

"Yes, that's the way it is. I shall be free then."

"Yes, of course," Susan didn't know what else to say.

"I'm afraid I'm doing all this very badly," Heath continued. He stared down at her, his thin, aristocratic features curiously illumined.

"I want to ask you something important."

Susan shivered, wishing he had not reminded her of that autumn night when, frantic with jealousy and anger, she had run away from Bob. She would never be able to forget Bob—never! Then she caught her breath, thinking that perhaps the solution to her problem lay before her. Marriage with Ernest Heath would widen her horizon. She would travel, meet new people, wear beautiful clothes. In all of this would there not, perhaps, be an antidote for the fever which possessed her?

"I feel greatly honored," she murmured, "but I don't know what to say."

"I didn't expect you to give me an answer tonight," he said. "I want you to think it over. I am afraid I have been very clumsy about it." The look of melancholy had become used to in the past few weeks clouded his face. Susan hastened to reassure him.

"It's I who am clumsy—and stupid, too," she amended. She had the satisfaction of seeing that rare smile lighten his features.

Heath was thinking. "The girl has tact and, what is more, graciousness." He had considered himself a completely distinguished man, but there was something in Susan's freshness which delighted him and gave him hope for the future. What could he not do with this girl at his side? He liked to think of her in soft fine fabrics with pearls at her throat. He would build her a new home somewhere in the country where low hills lay. She should have a French house with fine, delicate furniture and velvet textured rugs. That would be the proper setting for her.

"Let me think about it," the girl was saying, her fine, soft eyes luminous. What color were they, Heath wondered? Gray or black or were they a lambent hazel? Some day, perhaps, he would really know.

The car jolted around a corner in spite of Simon's careful driving the going was rough. The motion flung Susan almost into Heath's arms, and the fragrance of the perfume momentarily intoxicated him.

WORLD WAR YARNS

BY * * * YARNS
LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

Valiant Trenchermen All

The dense blackness of a night in northern France and a rapidly changing front line are credited with supplying a detachment of the Twenty-eighth Infantry with a delightful and unexpected meal in the fall of 1918.

From out of the darkness that night a German field kitchen, bearing food, coffee, cigars and cigarettes for 100 men, drove innocently to a battalion p. c. of the Twenty-eighth. It began to unload.

A poly-poly German cook was deeply chagrined when he learned the American front lines had been mistaken for his own. His only consolation was the knowledge that not even an enemy can hate you thoroughly if you bring him food.

The 25 Americans of the detachment prepared to set upon the food when a lieutenant popped from his nearby hole. He warned that this probably was a plot and that the German rations must be filled with poison for the Americans.

Among those disappointed at this alarm were the Germans. They were prepared to make the best of a bad situation by assisting in eating the food. As soon as the lieutenant popped into his hole again he fat German cook volunteered to taste the alum, coffee and other edibles he had brought along, as evidence of good faith.

This solved the difficulty. The Germans were permitted a taste only. Then the rations intended for 100 of the enemy disappeared before the determined onslaught of 25 Yanks.

Unusual Intelligence

By RUBY DOUGLAS

WANTED—A young woman of unusual intelligence to sell books in a tavern book stall.

Barbara Marquis read the advertisement over and over, her temperature rising with each reading. She had been lying on the red chaise longue in her own room reading a weekly literary journal that she always enjoyed. Suddenly she arose and went to the mirror on the wall.

"I wonder if I might call myself of 'unusual intelligence'?" she asked herself, studying her own face critically.

Barbara had always wanted to handle books in some capacity. They had had a fascination for her ever since the days when she used to go into her father's untidy study and sit on the floor to look at the books he never had time to put away nor space to shelve. She wrote a little, but not books.

And now, into her very lap, had dropped the idea. She picked up the paper again and decided that it was fate whispering in her ear. "I shall apply tonight," she declared. "I always have more personality after noon. I believe I must be nocturnal. And the tavern is sure to be candle lit—my favorite atmosphere."

She had a small runabout that she had named "Asthma," and as the diminutive car wheeled its way to the front of the tavern, whose proprietors sought a young woman of "unusual intelligence," Barbara began to feel a trifle nervous about her venture. However, it was too late to turn back, and she parked "Asthma" underneath a linden tree and entered.

Business evidently was not rushing. A few moldy-looking persons sat in stalls here and there eating and smoking and chatting, or trying to read in the flickering candle light. But Barbara liked the place the moment she put her foot over the threshold, and it mattered not to her that business was dull.

A prepossessing man of middle age approached her. He looked as if he might have been an actor.

"I came to see if perhaps I might qualify for the position you advertise in the Literary Review," Barbara began.

"Oh—yes. Won't you sit down?" Together they sought one of the dark wooden tables in a stall, and each sat on a bench. The man moved the brass candlestick so that the light would show him the young applicant's face.

"You think you could sell books?" asked the man.

Barbara liked his rich, mellow voice. It was a cultured voice. "I feel sure that I should love to sell them—here," she said simply.

"Why here?" queried the man.

"I like the atmosphere."

"It isn't exciting. There is no jazz, no obvious merriment," he insisted.

"I understand. It seems to be a place patterned after the old English taverns of Pickwickian days," the girl said. "It is just the sort of place I think we in this country are beginning to need. I—I think if you can hold out, financially—she had guessed that it might be a problem—"until the better sort of people here on the North Shore begin to know about you, you will have a great success. Even in winter, with a big crackling log fire in that great stone fireplace and tables and comfortable chairs all about and an atmosphere of leisure, I believe both the tavern and the book department will pay. All these shelves should be well filled and books should be intelligently shown."

"What kind of fairy sent you to me today?" asked the man.

Barbara laughed. "Perhaps the ghost of my dad, who loved books from every angle."

"You can help me buy the books as well as sell them." The man was growing enthusiastic. "Will you—would you come for a small competence—to begin with?"

"I'd love to. I'm not completely dependent, but I want to do something congenial."

Later, over a cup of coffee brought to them by a quiet-looking young woman, who looked as if she, too, had stepped out of Dickensian days, Barbara and the struggling proprietor of the tavern book stall had struck a bargain.

"I feel sure it has been a day that will always be marked high on my calendar," said Barbara, as she cranked "Asthma."

"I'm hoping you won't be disappointed. But I, too, feel that it has been a golden day."

Barbara began her work the following week, and the more she delved into the business of making a success of the book stall and the tavern, the more she realized what was coming over her. She was becoming hopelessly in love with the quiet man with whom she associated, and—well, it was all very wonderful.

"I have put August 4 on my calendar as the most important day of my life," said John Morley. "Do you want to guess why?"

"I'll tell you when the fire has burned down to embers, and you must let me take you home—tonight."

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

TELLS WHY MEN IN PRISON NEED FEAR TREATMENT

If you have ever wondered just why convicts in penitentiaries should be given comfortable living quarters, decent food, baseball diamonds, movies and flower gardens,

I suggest that you read "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing," by Lewis E. Lawes, famous warden of New York's famous prison.

Speaking from the depths of his experience—he has been connected with prisons for more than a quarter of a century—Warden Lawes explains exactly why it is to society's best interests to give its prisoners enlightened and humane care.

All but a few convicts, he says, will eventually go back to the outside world. If society, during their imprisonment, tries to understand them, tries to help them, tries to fit them for freedom, tries, in short, to treat them as human beings, should be treated, it can turn most of them into good citizens.

(Seventy-five per cent of Sing Sing's "graduates," he says, incidentally go straight after their release.) If it fails, they will come back.

Warden Lawes is no sentimentalist. His comments on the regime of Thomas Mott Osborne prove that. But he has learned that it pays to use a little intelligence in handling prisoners.

He tells, here, why he does not believe in capital punishment, why he supports the probation system, why the notorious Baumes laws don't work properly. He also tells the fascinating story of his own career, and buttresses each of his arguments with citations of his actual experiences.

All in all, this is about as sensible a discussion of America's prison problem as you'd care to find. Incidentally, it's full of human interest" yarns to boot.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

ALLIES MAKE GAIN

On May 5, 1918, French and British troops, on the Loire front, advanced nearly half a mile on a front a mile in width during a day of intense fighting.

The advance constituted the principal Allied gain since the German drive began in March and the news was hailed in Paris and London with cheers.

Allied commanders, however, still regarded the situation on the western front as grave. They estimated that the German reserve included 70 first-class divisions, nearly 750,000 men. This reserve still gave the Germans the balance of power on the front and enabled them to start a new major offensive whenever and wherever they chose.

Only four American divisions, the First, Second, Twenty-sixth and Forty-second, were regarded as fit for duty on active sectors of the front, but others were being trained rapidly and it was estimated that 10 divisions, each equal to two German divisions, would be ready by June 1.

Sixty-seven union veterans of the Civil war remain in Kentucky.

RIVERSIDES

Prove their quality again

"I should be licked for driving these roads"
 Sayville, Long Island
 Montgomery Ward & Co.,
 Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen:
 As a salesman I drove my Buick Master Six this year a little over 16,000 miles. Every kind of driving from the New York City traffic with sudden stops and quick starting to three months of long hot runs in the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. I should be licked for driving some of those sharp stone mountain roads, but the best trout fishing is where roads are so rough the other fellow is afraid to drive there. This fall I've been up scrub-oak roads rabbit shooting and that driving is hard on tires too, but thanks to Riversides, they stay with me. During the entire year, and 16,000 miles, not one of the Riversides got more mileage per dollar expended than he can in buying Riversides tires.

Very truly yours,
R.B. Cronk

This interesting letter from Mr. Cronk is one of many hundreds in our files. It was entirely voluntary—sent to us without solicitation. Nothing was paid for it. It is a genuine expression of gratitude for meritorious service.
